A Biblical Case for Natural Law in Dubai - UAE | Whizz

The locus classicus for natural theology, without question, is Romans 1. The apostle makes several facts clear in this stage of his extended argument. In the previous verse, Paul declares the solution to the problem of the whole human race. In verse 17, he begins to state the problem.

An Exegetical Case For Natural Law: The Christian ...

VanDrunen puts forth a good case for natural law. But I'm not sure about his arguments with it in relation to his 2K doctrine. In several places it looks like DVD is just reading the narratives of Scripture through his 2K lens, rather than getting his 2K from the narrative itself. John Frame does a good job at critiquing this book.

Anyone who is familiar with the debate over natural law in Protestant theological ethics has likely heard it said: "The Protestant doctrine of sola scriptura and the Roman Catholic teaching on natural law are fundamentally opposed." According to the proponents of this view, natural law is a set of ethical imperatives drawn from human nature and known through reason and it differs thereby from any form of supernaturally revealed legal or moral instruction.

Review of David VanDrunen, A Biblical Case for Natural Law

Natural theology, being linked with German national volk-religion, was set against the revealed religion of Christ in Scripture, and Barth's theology became all the more extreme in its defence. His biblical theology became isolated from rationality, presupposing its own truth, which needed no justification.
