Fight for $15

The Fight for $15 is an American political movement advocating for the minimum wage to be raised to $15 (United States dollars) per hour. The federal minimum wage was set at $7.25 per hour in 2009 (equivalent to $8.64 in 2019, so the purchasing power of $7.25 has reduced by $1.44 since 2009, "), and as of 2020 it has not been increased since. The movement has involved strikes by child care, home ...

The Fight for Fifteen movement, launched in New York City in late

2012, is one of the most vital, innovative, and militant struggles in recent US labor history. As one Fight for Fifteen organizer put it, now many young workers " are looking at the union movement, not as something that's stodgy, old, and past its prime, but as something that's exciting and new and the way forward for hope in our lives... Fight for Fifteen is making the union movement cool again."

The Fight For 15 Campaign - YouTube

The Fight for $15 began in 2012 when two hundred fast-food workers walked off the job to demand $15/hr and union rights in New York City. Today, we're a global movement in over 300 cities on six continents. We are fast-food workers, home health aides, child care teachers, airport workers, adjunct professors, retail employees - and underpaid workers everywhere.

The Fight for $15 Is More Important Than Ever - Complex

Rolf's narrative around the historic campaigns for a $15/hr wage in the Puget Sound region is fast paced and engaging, giving workers a sense of what is possible in their communities if they fight for it. The Fight for $15 is ultimately a blueprint for an American future in which workers have power and equity, and path away from the income inequality that plagues us today.
