There is a close link between patent rights and competition, which can often be characterized by two factors. First, patent laws aim to prevent copying or imitation of patented inventions, and thus complement competition policies in that they tend to promote fair market behavior. Second, competition laws may limit patent rights in that patent holders may be deterred from abusing their rights.

Differences Between Patent and Competition Laws | Modern ...

Watering down this right by competition law would arguably weaken inventors' abilities to appropriate the full value of their inventions, and so weaken incentives to invest in inventive activity. Although this 'incentive' theory of patents is still robustly defended in the literature, it seems to overlook the complex reality of patents in practice.

The uneasy interface between patent law and competition policy

Abstract This essay is the introduction to a forthcoming volume entitled, Regulating Innovation: Competition Policy and Patent Law Under Uncertainty (Cambridge U. Press 2009 forthcoming). In addition to introducing all of the papers in the volume, this essay introduces the organizing themes of the volume. Innovation is critical to economic growth.

Regulating Innovation: Competition Policy and Patent Law ...

The relationship between competition law and patent rights may seem inherently contradictory, but in reality it is not. Rather, both legislative devices promote dynamic competition by limiting static competition. Patent rights grant holders a headstart over their competitors by enabling them to exploit the patent for a specific duration. It is obvious that during this period the patent owner will have a monopoly and a position of dominance.

Competition and Patents Patent laws mainly aim to prevent bootlegging, making and selling patented products and thus it can be said that Patent right also complements with competition policy in that it contributes to fair market behavior, which is the prime purpose of competition policy.

Interplay Between Competition Law And IPR In Its ...

IP and Competition Policy. Intellectual property (IP) allows consumers to make choices between competing entrepreneurs, and the goods and services they sell. Therefore, IP is inherently pro-competitive as it ensures the protection of differentiated, intangible business assets. Without IP, less efficient manufacturers and service providers would try to lure clients by copying the goods and services of more efficient competitors.
