The impact factor of a journal is calculated by dividing the number of current year citations to the source items published in that journal during the previous two years. It is denoted as a ratio between citations and recent citable items published. You can either refer to the Journal Citation Reports (JCR) or the Scopus® database to find the impact factor of the journal.

Find Impact Factor of Journal Online | Impact Factor ...

Impact factors are calculated yearly starting from 1975 for journals listed in the Journal Citation Reports (JCR). ISI was acquired by Thomson Scientific & Healthcare in 1992, and became known as Thomson ISI. In 2018, Thomson ISI was sold to Onex Corporation and Baring Private Equity Asia.

Impact factor - Wikipedia

The CiteFactor server provides indexing of major international journals and proceedings. Author can get information about international journal impact factor, proceedings (research papers) and information on upcoming events. All the journal pages have pointers to Web pages of the publishers which are integrated into the CiteFactor stream pages.

Impact Factor | Journal Indexing - Journal Impact Factor List

The median Impact factor is the median value of all journals impact factors in the subject category. The journal impact factor extenuates the significance of absolute citation frequencies. It alleviates the advantage of large journals over small journals because large journals circulate a larger body of citable literature.
