In finance, the time value of an option is the premium a rational investor would pay over its current exercise value, based on the probability it will increase in value before expiry. For an American option this value is always greater than zero in a fair market, thus an option is always worth more than its current exercise value. As an option can be thought of as 'price insurance', TV can be thought of as the risk premium the option seller charges the buyer—the higher the expected risk ...

Time Value of Money Formula | Calculator (Excel template)

When calculating time value, it is measured as any value of an option other than its intrinsic value. Option Price - Intrinsic Value = Time Value For example, if Company XYZ is trading for $25 and the XYZ 20 call option is trading at $7, then we would say that the option has an intrinsic value of $5 ( $$25 - $20 = $5$ ), and a time value of $2 ( $$7 - $5 = $2$ ).
