In AWWA M11 the load is calculated as the prism of earth above the pipe. This is the maximum dead load the pipe should see over time. Because steel pipe is designed for maximum possible soil load directly over the outside of the diameter of the pipe when the prism load W is used, D is 1.0. The prism load is a conservative design approach, as the actual earth load on a flexible pipe lies somewhere between the Marston/Spangler trench load and the more conservative prism load.
